

Hacker F3A Battery EC-Support

Hacker again would like to support the participants of the F3A European Championship 2018 in Belgium with its on-site battery supply

The requirements for the transportation of dangerous goods such as batteries and model fuels in commercial aircrafts have become more and more drastic in recent years. For many RC pilots it has become a serious problem to bring their batteries to the international competitions in their carry-on baggage. The participants often have to ship their batteries via complicated and expensive services heading for their international competitions. The Hacker Motor GmbH has reacted to this circumstance now offering the Hacker Battery Service in cooperation with the organizer of the championship:

All participants of the F3A-EC can make use of the time limited and price cut LiPo package deal for direct pick up on-site of the Competition:
